Any way to have the link to the help & support group point directly to the forum? [no, not right now, unless we write new code. You could request this as an option here -- https://github.com/cuny-academic-commons/commons-in-a-box - but what you want to request is that users have the option of making the group homepage the forum instead of activity -- MKG] [will do. might be useful for help pages. i'll dig around to see how to add the functionality. if it's not too time consuming I'll put in a pull request.]
