Description
Hi Dom,
I just realized Chase Robinson's personal website (hosted on Commons) has the same homepage layout issue that the Fellowships page had. Could we make the same adjustments?
Thanks!
Erin

Matt, it appears that Luna is a premium theme. Do you still have access to the commercial site where you purchased it? If so, can you download an updated version? If not, would you consider renewing the subscription so that we can receive updates? I'm pretty confident that a bug of this magnitude would have been fixed in Luna already.

In the meantime, I'm going to fix the issue in Luna itself, as it will affect all sites using the theme, or a child theme thereof.

In <https://github.com/castiron/cac/commit/4752fc0d5f252f62823c85f1589c3fd32a354359>, I excised the line where Luna registers its own jquery-ui.

This change is live on the production site. Can I ask someone to verify on <http://chaserobinson.net> that it's working as expected?

Looks good in Safari, Chrome and FF on OSX.

According to the theme's homepage:

<http://theforest.net/item/luna-responsive-wordpress-theme/2395168>

The latest version is 2.1.1. We are running 1.9.

Matt, I can't remember if there was a reason behind not upgrade besides it being a premium theme. Was there a functionality issue with newer versions that kept us from upgrading? Either way, if you'd like to upgrade just let me know. Get me the new theme files and I'll start a new project where we get all Luna-based sites up and running with the latest parent.

Looks much better to me, Boone -- many thanks. Erin, can you confirm?

Going to interpret the silence as confirmation that everything's working as intended :)
