Description
While exploring ticket #5051, I came across a strange state where I can view the comments on my paper while in edit-mode. While I think it would be great if this was possible, I don't think it's intentional so I wanted to bring it to your attention. Here's how I got to it: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- Using Chrome, logged in, went to Papers tab to access the full directory</li><li>- Clicked on my paper in the 'All Papers' tab of the directory</li><li>- That took me to my own paper in edit-mode with the comment bubbles visible. Clicking on the + or trying to reply to an existing comment does not function correctly.</li><li>- I had to clear my cache to re-create this. Once you've opened the paper once, the same sequence of steps brings you to the paper in read-mode immediately.</li></ul> Screenshot of the comments visible during edit-mode attached.

Ray, you have any idea why this would be happening? I don't see how Edit mode would be triggered on entry like this.

It might have something to do with HTTPS and the hotfix we deployed for FEE:

<https://github.com/cuny-academic-commons/cac/commit/7550ae6e1835fb87bf7ecda757819e28ded4688>

But, like Boone, I could not duplicate this with Sam's instructions. Specifically:

- Clicked on my paper in the 'All Papers' tab of the directory
- That took me to my own paper in edit-mode with the comment bubbles visible.

If you click on a link from the Papers Directory, it shouldn't take you directly to Edit Mode.

Is this still happening on production?

I just re-tried my steps on the dev and it does not appear to happen on cdev, though it's still happening on the live-site.

Okay, I was finally able to duplicate this bug locally and have added a fix for this:

<https://github.com/cuny-academic-commons/cac/commit/6a9cfa129076fa8a9229588d1ac33f277390dd7c>

Previously, we appended #edit=true to the paper URL if you were viewing the site without SSL. This would trigger edit mode automatically when clicking on a paper link.

Now, if you click on a paper from the Papers Directory, edit mode will no longer be triggered, which is what we intended originally.
