Description (originally suggested in #555) How would this look? Is the idea that you would send a single post to a different topic in the same group? In a different group? Or perhaps you would send an entire topic to another group? Michael, if you could provide the use case you have in mind, maybe I could wrap my mind around the suggestion a bit better.

Discussed during our meeting today. We don't see a pressing need for this feature.

Had I been there I would have agreed. If this feature has not been requested by other users in three years I would argue that it's not a high priority feature that should be taking focus away from other issues.
