| I just shared a non-CUNY sign-up code with a relatively large group. If that code were to be shared more widely or even made public, and if problematic trolling before etc were to happen after the fact, would be able to ascertain, at a later date which accounts had used it to register? |              |                        |            |

Yes, the plugin keeps track of the signup code used. It's not available in the UI anywhere, but I can query for it in the database. (Technical note: the 'cac_signup_code' usermeta row.

Okay - thanks.
