Description
Hi Boone,
I am working with Matt and Luke this semester to support 11 faculty fellows who will be using the Commons in their courses. There is a faculty member whose plans require several plugins to be added to the Commons. I will provide some more details and links below. I know some of these plugins may need to be security tested and/or may not be good for the Commons. If you have any suggested workarounds, feel free to let me know and I can relay these possibilities to the faculty member.
The faculty member is hoping to have students upload their own pictures to each post. (It is a math class so typical text-only posts are difficult.) I know student's uploading pictures can be an issue because they often upload files that are very large and use up all the space allotted to the course site. Blogs@Baruch uses a plugin called "Imsanity" to regulate the size of each photo uploaded. Would it be possible to add this plugin? Since the plugin resizes each image when it is uploaded I realize that there might be some code executed with this and therefore may not meet security reqs on the Commons. Any other work around ideas are welcome. Imsanity: https://wordpress.org/plugins/imsanity/
This faculty member was also hoping that the default setting for posts would be "private" (rather than students having to select that for each post). I am not aware of a way to set posts to private by default except through a plugin, for example: https://wordpress.org/plugins/private-post-by-default/
Thanks in advance for your insight & help

Hi Laurie - Thanks for the detailed request.

Imsanity looks good to me. Installed in <https://github.com/cuny-academic-commons/cac/commit/320221d76f452f712a23348302d7472e705f5a65>. It will be available for use after today's maintenance release.

private-post-by-default looks good too. <https://github.com/cuny-academic-commons/cac/commit/90f96621f66bfad9d836d4994cdfaa9302f7e22> This will also be available later today.
